Winter footprints of faith

By David J. Spittal, president Southern Wesleyan University

It snows infrequently in our area but, when it does, the landscape can be transformed quickly from the dreary gray of winter to a blanket of brilliant whiteness. Children seem instinctively to know what to do when snow appears, and they explore all the various ways it can provide an afternoon of fun that we adults often miss.

Nothing surpasses being the first to walk in fresh fallen snow and the opportunity to experience the stillness and peace that it brings. A tree dressed in white, a brilliant red cardinal or a bright blue sky seems to draw our attention to things that often go unnoticed. Perhaps, for a moment, it also brings a sense of peace and restoration that is difficult to find in our hectic lives.

A winter snow can interrupt life and, much like the Holy Spirit, refresh the soul.

As we walk with God, the Holy Spirit meets us in the midst of the most difficult of circumstances. He usually comes quietly, like a fresh snowfall and, with him, a stillness and peace that exceeds our understanding. That which we hoped for suddenly becomes real and a fresh covering of God's presence, reminds us, once again, of God's perfect love.

We are challenged to live lives of hope and to walk with a bold faith in our God. Step by step He desires that we experience the faithfulness of a God that can be trusted.

May our lives be like footprints in fresh snow and may they always lead those who follow directly to Him.

Dr. David Spittal, university president

Student experiences China

Tina Collins, a Southern Wesleyan University senior majoring in China Studies, spent this past fall exploring China's rich culture and history, seeing sites that included the Teracotta Army of Xi'an and other historic places. Here, Collins is pictured at Ping Yao, part of the Great Wall in Shan Xi, northwestern China. During her training, she traveled to Beijing, Shanghai and Hong Kong. Collins also spent time in Hefei with her friend and Southern Wesleyan classmate Chen Chen and her family. "Because of the CCCU Best Semester program, Southern Wesleyan and the Gilman Scholarship, I was able to have the time of my life, receive a job in translating and have returned as a well-rounded individual who still loves everything about China," Collins said. Details about Collins' experience can be found online at www.swu.edu/students/tina.htm.

On the cover The theme for this issue of Focus magazine is based on Hebrews 11:1, "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." As so many things in our lives seem to falter, our faith sustains us. A faithful servant of God, Dr. David Spittal, Southern Wesleyan president, will retire in June, 2011. For details and to send farewell wishes, go to www.swu.edu/spittal.

Update on challenge to fuel Promise Fund

As of Feb. 21, 2011, the university has raised $236,978 toward the $450,000 goal for Promise Fund giving, which is a little over half way!

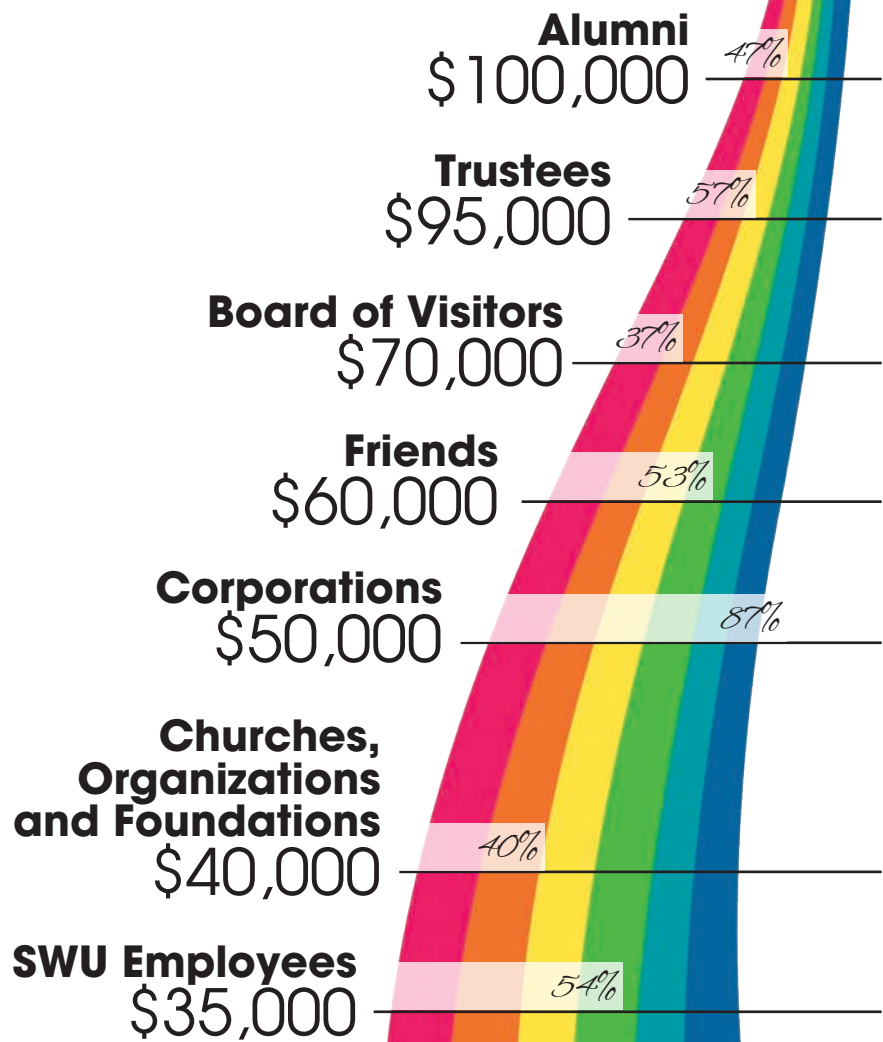

In this tough economic economy, the university is grateful for the gifts that God has provided so far, but continues with the faith that He will provide the rest of the funds before June 30. Please review the progress on the chart at right. The constituents and goals for each, as well as the results so far, are charted.

Many have joined the 100 plus challenge for Southern Wesleyan University's Promise Fund. There is still time for you to help the university reach its $450,000 goal by June 30.

What are we asking? We need you to pray, give and send. Pray for the financial stability of Southern Wesleyan University. Give monthly to help us keep the promise to our students. Send students to Southern Wesleyan to experience all that God has in store for their higher education.

We need everyone to pull together if we are to add to the 15 consecutive years of ending our year with our budget in the black. We need you to pray, give and send. Time is running out ... take the challenge. We need you!

Overall Goal
$450,000

I will keep the foundation of SWU strong by giving a monthly gift of $_____ or a one-time gift of $_____.

Consider this giving chart:

First year givers	$12 per month
Second year givers	$24 per month
Third year givers	$36 per month
Tenure givers	$41.66 per month

Please make checks payable to SWU. In the memo line, please put Promise Fund. Cut the form above and mail using the envelope provided in this issue of FOCUS magazine.

Students compete, raise money for SWU Promise Fund

Eighty students volunteered their time during the week of October 4-8 to call alumni and friends to raise support for the Promise Fund. During that time, more than $32,000 was pledged. Of the pledged amount, $17,516 has been received.

A challenge was issued and prizes were given to the students and class, club or organization that raised the most money during this week. Individual student winners were: first place, Stephanie Sestito, a junior majoring in biology, from Frederica, Del.; second place, Bradley Wilson, a senior majoring in physical education, from Lincolnton, N.C.; and third place, Jasmine Smith, a freshman majoring in media communications, from Franklin, Va. The SWU cheerleaders raised the most money in the class/club/organization challenge.

Special thanks to the following restaurants for providing food for students during this week of calling: Subway (Central Walmart Shopping Center); Zaxby's (Clemson); Pizza Hut (Clemson); Skin Thrashers Hot Dogs (Clemson); The Hudson Bagel Company (Clemson); Moe's Southwest Grill (Clemson) and Sidetracked Cafe' (Central).

If you missed our call in the fall, another call will come in the spring. All donations are tax deductible and help toward the alumni and friends goal for the Promise Fund this year.

First Citizens supports Promise Fund

Board of Visitors to meet in March

Southern Wesleyan University deeply appreciates the interest, support and involvement of its members of the Board of Visitors. The next meeting of the Board of Visitors is scheduled for Thursday, March 24, 2011.

Anyone interested in serving on the BOV should contact Reverend Jim Wiggins at 864-644-5013.

The university is saddened with the passing of Roy Collins of Central, a faithful member of our BOV who had served a 3-year term and just renewed for another 3-year term.

New degree to prepare education leaders

Southern Wesleyan University is now offering a new master's degree for educators who plan to become administrators.

The university's new Master of Education in Administration and Supervision, launching in February 2011, will fill a need in the state of South Carolina for highly qualified professionals in school administration and supervision, according to Dr. Paul Shotsberger, dean of Southern Wesleyan's School of Education.

The 12-course program will provide the opportunity for advanced certification for administrators at the elementary or secondary level.

Shotsberger said Southern Wesleyan offers the highest quality instructors who have academic expertise and experience, as well as necessary resources for students to qualify for any administration or supervision career path they may pursue.

The new curriculum will cover topics including educational leadership, school operations management, public and community relations, ethics and advanced educational research.

"This new program includes three practicum opportunities in addition to a capstone internship, all of which can be completed at your school without requiring you to leave your current position," Shotsberger said.

The program will be offered at Southern Wesleyan's five learning centers throughout the state:

Central, Charleston, Columbia, Greenville and North Augusta. For details about the Master of Education Degree in Administration and Supervision, visit www.swu.edu/MEDAS or call 1-877-644-5557 for learning center locations.

Southern Wesleyan University prepares students for leadership and graduate study in such fields as religion, education, music, business, medicine, law and a variety of civic and social service professions. Southern Wesleyan offers 41 degree programs.

Musicians plan to honor retiring SWU president

Southern Wesleyan University's Music Department extends a special invitation to all alumni and especially the music alumni to attend two concerts in April that will honor retiring university president Dr. David Spittal.

Special recognition will be given during the Wind Ensemble Concert on April 12 at 7:30 p.m., and again at the Masterworks Concert on April 17 at 3 p.m. Both concerts will take place in Newton Hobson Chapel and Fine Arts Center and are free to the public.

Dr. Spittal has been a strong supporter of the music program, and the department has made great progress during his tenure at Southern Wesleyan. The most evident sign of this progress can be seen in the Newton Hobson Chapel and Fine Arts Center, which houses the Music Department.

Music students from the early years of Dr. Spittal's tenure will remember his comments about a desire for more instruments and a better performance space, and how committed he was to making those things happen. The music department is excited about this opportunity to honor Dr. Spittal for his tireless devotion to music and the arts on the university's campus.

University student-athletes build teamwork, character

Southern Wesleyan University's athletic department has received the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Champions of Character award for the past several years.

This award is given to NAIA schools that meet certain standards set forth by the national office. To be considered a Champions of Character institution, schools must complete a form which is later reviewed by a team directed by NAIA Vice President of Champions of Character Rob Haworth.

"The Champions of Character program supports performance-driven athletics while defining expectations and standards that drive successful teams and athletic departments," Haworth said.

The mission of Champions of Character is to restore character values and raise a generation of students who understand and demonstrate in everyday decisions integrity, respect, responsibility, sportsmanship and servant leadership.

The Warrior men's soccer team opened this year's service opportunities by volunteering their time at the local Clemson Community Care in early August.

"Doing community service during preseason is always a great way to build unity within the team. This past year we went to Clemson Community Care and put packages of food together. I was amazed at how hard the team worked to accomplish something that went beyond them," head men's soccer coach Camilo Rodriguez said.

The men's soccer team then assisted members of The Lot Project with a basketball tournament. The student-athletes assisting in officiating basketball games created to bring in some local kids in areas of need. The squad also helped set up the event and interacted with those in attendance. The Lot Project serves communities across the state and works in part by mentoring teens and feeding, clothing and providing shelter for those in need.

The softball, men and women's basketball and baseball teams have all been active in reaching out to the community. The Southern Wesleyan softball team partnered with the Pickens County Habitat for Humanity in Apostles' Build 2010. In an Apostles' Build, the mission is for 12 local churches or organizations to partner to raise money and provide the labor and prayer support to build a Habitat for Humanity house.

Southern Wesleyan University women's basketball player Kayla Plantin reads to a group of Spearman Elementary School students in Piedmont, S.C. Plantin and other Warrior student athletes took part in community service programs at various locations through the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Champions of Character program.

"Habitat for Humanity is a great opportunity for our student-athletes to make a difference in our community, and to gain experience beyond the classroom and the field. It also helps to equip our student-athletes for service and to transform their world, which is a key part of the mission of Southern Wesleyan University," head softball coach Ed Deugan said.

The men's basketball team was busy in the fall as they visited the Frazee Dream House, participated in a Memory Walk and donated backboards to a local elementary school. The women's basketball team visited Spearman Elementary School and participated in their after-school program assisting with arts and crafts and reading to the students.

Head baseball coach Mike Gillespie had his team involved in the country Santa Project that has been helping needy families in the foothills of South Carolina since 1978. Last year the organization helped more than 3,200 children in the Upstate area experience Christmas. This year the Southern Wesleyan baseball program helped Country Santa by collecting toys and money prior to Christmas, then bagging and distributing the toys. The team started their mission back in October and collected $1,250 for the project, which includes toys and monetary gifts.

The Warrior athletics programs continue to work in the community throughout the rest of the spring semester. Southern Wesleyan was recognized with a 5-Star Award from the NAIA for their efforts in 2009-2010, as SWU was located in the upper 70th percentile of schools throughout the nation.

Southern Wesleyan group visits Holy Land

By Janet Carriker Green, '62

On a pilgrimage to the Holy Land in November, a group of Southern Wesleyan University alumni and friends traveled far from home, but drew closer to God.

The group, led by Dr. Jim Bross Sr., included Jim Bross Jr., Sheila Crawford, Valerie Ramsey and myself (all SWU alumni), Annette Carrigan, Ruth Harris, Pam and the Reverend Phillip McAlister, and Joyce Young left Douglas Airport in Charlotte, N.C., just before noon on Nov. 29, 2010, and arrived in Tel Aviv, Israel, late afternoon on Nov. 30. We spent our first night in Israel in Netanya and were joined by a group of 16 other tourists from Dallas, Tex.

The next morning we made our way up the coastline to Caesarea, constructed by Herod the Great in 20 B.C. and named for Augustus Caesar. It was the official residence of the Roman governors, including Pontius Pilate. There we viewed both ancient ruins and a renovated Roman amphitheater still used today. One of the ruins we saw was the room where the Apostle Paul was held and talked with King Agrippa and Bernice during his imprisonment before being sent to Tarsus.

We then traveled to Mt. Carmel and visited a monastery on the traditional site where Elijah had God bring down fire on his watered altars, pitting the power of his God against the Baal priests and their god. Our next visits were to Megiddo, where the Battle of Armageddon will be fought, and to Cana, where Jesus performed his first miracle.

The next five days we trekked from early mornings to late afternoons seeing as much of the Holy Land as we could see. Crossing the Sea of Galilee by boat, visiting the site of the Mount of the Beatitudes, the Mount where the loaves and fishes were multiplied and the shore of Galilee where Peter was told by Christ to feed his sheep, then renewing our baptismal vows in the Jordan River brought joy to our hearts.

Exploring the sites of Nazareth and then via Bet Shean traveling through the Jordan Valley to Bethlehem, we caught our first sights of the Judean desert and Jerusalem, the city built on a hill. It was an easy one and a half hour trip by bus, but my mind tried to imagine how hard it must have been for Joseph and Mary, the soon-to-be parents of our Lord, to make that long trip on foot through the desert to reach the city where their lineages began.

Bethlehem held special sites for us: the Church of the Nativity, marking the spot of Christ's birth, and the Shepherd's Field. Singing Christmas carols there in the Shepherd's Field brought a keen sense of awe and wonder to us. The Palestinian encasement of the city saddened us. The inhabitants of Bethlehem have to enter and exit the city through the Palestinian checkpoints.

In and close to Jericho we saw Elisha's Spring, Jesus' Mount of Temptation and the traditional sycamore tree that Zacchaeus climbed to see our Lord. We traveled to Masada, Qumran, Bethany (Lazarus' city), and to the Dead Sea, passing the site of Jesus' baptism by John in the Jordan River.

Our next two days were spent in and around Jerusalem. We drove to the top of the Mount of Olives to look over the city and went to the place of the Ascension, and visited a garden tomb that some propose to have been where Jesus was buried and resurrected. We visited the Upper Room, the Rock of Agony, upon which Jesus prayed the night before his arrest, and the Garden of Gethsemane, where we had the Lord's Supper in remembrance of Him.

Upon leaving Jerusalem, we visited the western wall of the temple now known as the Wailing Wall. As I placed my hand on the wall to join those praying there, I felt the witness of the Holy Spirit as if it were an electrical shock. His power permeated the premises. I felt that it was His wall, His holy place; I felt His validating our pilgrimage to His Holy Land. What an awesome place to be, what a glorifying experience!

Pausing to celebrate and moving forward

Achieving a challenging 10-year goal is a real missionary milestone for Dave and Donna Tolan.

Ten years ago the Tolans, Missions Mobilizers at SWU, set a goal that from 2000 to 2010, more than 100 SWU students or alumni will have served, or be under appointment to serve, as missionaries for six months or longer. They divided the goal into two parts: 50 by 2006 and 100 by 2010. When the Tolans set this goal, they said it seemed impossible.

“However, we were convinced this goal was God-ordained and knew it would only be reached through His power,” Dave Tolan said.

In November, during Southern Wesleyan’s annual missions conference on the university’s main campus in Central, the university celebrated. In chapel was a missionary roll call, with an accompanying PowerPoint, of 100 names.

“From approximately 10 missionaries in the 1990’s to more than 100 in the last 10 years is an amazing accomplishment,” Tolan said. “These 100 represent more than 150 years of service in almost 40 different countries! Currently, 38 are either on the field or under appointment and raising support to depart soon.”

Now that the university has celebrated, the focus will move to setting a new goal.

“We must move ahead! We must refocus,” Tolan said.

Southern Wesleyan University had 100 missionaries from 2000 to 2010. These are alumni who, within the past 10 years, have served as missionaries for six months or longer or have been appointed and are raising support to serve.

THE JOURNEY OF A THOUSAND STUDENTS BEGINS ON A SINGLE BRICK.

YOUR BRICK.

Let your name mark the way for generations to come.

Our new Alumni Walk – a path every future SWU grad will travel – will be paved with bricks engraved with the names and other inspiring messages contributed by alumni and their family members.

Your name can be among the first to make a lasting impression on the future. Just donate $100 to the SWU Promise Fund supporting scholarship funds, expanded campus ministries and more.

For details, contact the Alumni Office (jbryant@swu.edu or 864-644-5385) or log on to www.swu.edu and follow the “Rock The Walk” link.

The United States Air Force named Col. Tonya Birdsong Hagmaier, a 1983 summa cum laude English and History graduate from Southern Wesleyan University, Outstanding Senior Attorney of the Year. Hagmaier has served in a wide variety of positions, including a deputy staff judge advocate, wing staff judge advocate and commandant of the judge advocate general's school. She was also selected to be the chief of professional development for the JAG Corps and has received numerous recognitions, including Andersen Air Force Base's Federal Woman of the Year for 2000 and Pacific Air Force's Senior Attorney of the Year for 2002. The award is presented by the Air Force Association to recognize the outstanding legal achievements of a senior Air Force attorney, civilian or military.

Grant Skellenger, a Southern Wesleyan University English graduate, produced a feature-length movie, "More than Diamonds," which premiered in Greenville Sept. 9 and enjoyed a run at a local theater. The drama-adventure weaves a story that begs the question of what is truly important in life.

Dr. Brian Swords, a Southern Wesleyan University business graduate, was named director of Tri-County Technical College's new Easley campus. He also is the director of operations for the college's Corporate and Community Education Division, which includes responsibility of the college's new Quickjobs training centers located in Oconee and Pickens counties. Swords will retain his current duties while assuming the new responsibilities in Easley. He received his master's degree in technology and human resource development and doctorate degree in vocational and technical college administration from Clemson University.

'01

Olivia Stogner recently published a novel entitled "The Unfading," a work similar in concept to those of fantasy authors J.R.R. Tolkien, George McDonald and C.S. Lewis. The story is set in the fictitious land of Kelwynden and centers on a girl who is taken in by a family who discovered her floating in a boat down a stream. A 2001 English graduate, Stogner is currently an English instructor at Alamance Community College in Burlington, N.C. She said that inspiration for the novel came from her work as an English teacher and recent travels to China and other places. Details about Stogner's book can be found online at www.theunfadingbook.com and the book is available at amazon.com. She resides in Burlington.

Shoes for Steve was started by Heidi Wilcox Ravenscraft ('02) and her sister Melissa ('06) to collect shoes for homeless shelters in Oconee, Pickens and Greenville counties. They collect new or very gently used adult athletic and work shoes. Their goal this past Christmas was to reach 1,000 pairs of shoes donated since they began in 2008.

Jessica Bittner, a Southern Wesleyan University music graduate, has released a Christian music album entitled "Deeper." A commercial for the album was scheduled to be seen on MTV.

'07

Braeden Kershner, Southern Wesleyan University music education alum, was featured on NBC's Today Show Thanksgiving Day. At age 18, Kershner became one of a select few individuals who directed the Boston Pops orchestra. Kershner is currently band director at C.E. Williams Middle School in Charleston, S.C.

'08

Nikki Mock, a Southern Wesleyan University North Augusta M.Ed. graduate, was recently named Teacher of the Year by the Aiken County School District. Mock is a fifth-grade teacher at Hammond Hill Elementary School in North Augusta, S.C. She will spend the next year representing Aiken County throughout the state and will compete for South Carolina Teacher of the Year.

'09

Letrece McCoy, a North Augusta education graduate, was featured in an Augusta Chronicle article recently. The article told the story of McCoy's journey from Katrina-ravaged New Orleans to Windsor Spring

Elementary School in Augusta, Ga. Since coming to Windsor Spring, McCoy has been recognized for her innovation in the classroom and outstanding achievements as an educator. In 2009, she was named the school's Teacher of the Year.

'09

Lance Ingle, a computer science graduate, returned to Southern Wesleyan University, where he is working as a security analyst and web applications specialist in the Information Technology department.

'10

Shenese Frasier, was named Teacher of the Year at C.C. Blaney Elementary School in Hollywood, S.C. Frasier received her M.Ed. in 2010.

Students

Southern Wesleyan University student Landis Turner takes soft, colorful yarn and creates knit caps that make a difference in the lives of many infants and their families. Turner learned about the caps a few months ago during a visit from her grandmother. "I saw her doing the caps. They looked fun and easy, so she taught me how to knit them," Turner said. The caps are given to infants in the neonatal intensive care unit of Duke University Hospital to keep their heads warm. She said that the mothers enjoy getting to pick out a hat and putting them on their babies. Turner is a freshman from Roanoke, Va., majoring in psychology and human services. She also is a work-study student in the admissions department.

Southern Wesleyan University student Curtis Todd developed a game for Xbox that reached the top 20 downloads by users of the gaming system. Todd, a freshman majoring in computer science, is the son of Missi Bryant, secretary for the university's physical plant. Along with a team of former high school classmates, Todd developed the game, called Mower, as a test for acceptance as a developer of Xbox games. Using a virtual lawnmower and weed whacker, players of the game are challenged to cut grass in the fastest time to get the highest score. More than 5,000 Xbox gamers downloaded the game, with 500 of them actually purchasing it. Three years ago, Todd began a company, Diamond Bullet Studios LLC, with members of his development team. They are currently developing a new game for future release.

AGS

Myrna Still Dill, a current student at Southern Wesleyan University in North Augusta, was elected as probate judge for Barnwell County Nov. 2. She graduated in December 2009 from Southern Wesleyan in North Augusta with an associate's degree and is currently working on her bachelor's degree in business management. Dill was sworn in Jan. 4, 2011.

Faculty and staff

SWU faculty members Paul Creasman and Rosina Marini made scholarly presentations at the recent Popular Culture Association in the South conference, held Oct. 7-9, in Savannah, Ga. Both presentations concerned the evangelical community's reactions to recent popular culture phenomena. Creasman presented a paper titled, "Communicating the Religious: Evangelical Books about LOST." Marini presented a paper titled, "Reconsidering the 'Irreligious': Religious Perspectives in Stephanie Meyer's Twilight Series."

Southern Wesleyan University School of Business faculty member Charles H. R. Williams, right, received an award at the 2010 Christian Business Faculty Association conference, held Oct. 21-23, in Lakeland, Fla. Williams was named "Best Reviewer" at the conference. The award was presented by Tim Redmer, CBFA program chair. The CBFA is the host organization for two business journals: The Journal of Biblical Integration in Business and the Christian Business Academy Review. Williams is assistant professor of management at Southern Wesleyan's Charleston location.

Board of Visitors

Charles Roy Collins, a member of Southern Wesleyan University's board of visitors, passed away Jan 6, 2011, at Collins Ole Towne in Central, S.C.

Collins was a former employee of Clemson University Forestry Dept., director of public works for Pickens County, was on the Pickens County Council, served on the Easley-Central Water District, the Pickens County Water Authority and served more than 45 years in the S.C. Army National Guard. Funeral services were held Jan. 9 at Central First Baptist Church, followed by burial with full military rites at Memory Gardens, Clemson, S.C.

Collins is survived by his wife of 51 years, Patricia Shirley Collins and children: Sheryl "Joe" McElwee of Anderson, S.C.; Marshall "Janie" Collins of Rock Hill, S.C.; and Marion "Gail" Collins of Clemson, S.C. He is also survived by eight grandchildren.

University board leader passes away

Dr. Lowell Eugene Jennings of Brevard, N.C., former chairman of the Southern Wesleyan University board of trustees, died Dec. 28, 2010, at Transylvania Regional Hospital.

Jennings chaired the board of trustees at Southern Wesleyan for more than 30 years. During this time, he was awarded an honorary doctorate degree. Also, the Campus Life Center on the university's campus in Central was named in his honor.

Southern Wesleyan University President Dr. David Spittal said that Jennings demonstrated leadership and a strong commitment to the university and its Christ-centered mission. Spittal also expressed appreciation for Jennings' supportiveness during his early years as president.

"Those early days were difficult for the university and the temptation to surrender was always present, but his steadfastness and encouragement helped me draw strength and courage to pursue God's plan for this special place," Spittal said.

Jennings practiced family medicine in Gastonia, N.C., and later served as a physician for the Veteran's Administration. He also worked as a medical missionary for The Wesleyan Church in India and Sierra Leone, West Africa. He served the church in local, district and general boards of administration. Jennings is a veteran of both World War II and the Korean War, having served in the U.S. Army and receiving four Bronze Stars, as well as several medals of commendation.

Jennings is survived by his wife, Mary Faith Jennings; two sons, Donald Jennings of Tallahassee, Fla.; David Jennings of Lowell, N.C.; two daughters, Janene Bryson of Brevard, N.C.; Ellen Belliveau of Highland, Md.; and 11 grandchildren. Funeral services were held Dec. 31, 2010, at Brevard Wesleyan Church with the Revs. Hank Moffitt, Dave Blackburn, Don Milstead and Morris Davis officiating. Burial was at Oakwood Cemetery in Gastonia, N.C.

Memorials may be made to the Southern Wesleyan University, P.O. Box 1020, Central, SC 29630 (and may be sent in the envelope enclosed in this magazine) or to Global Partners for Kamakwie Wesleyan Hospital in Sierra Leone (www.wesleyan.org/gp/projects).

Central regional director passionate

A passion for all levels of education is the driving force for Jim Shelton.

The regional director for Southern Wesleyan University's adult and graduate studies program in Central, S.C., Shelton is adamant about the importance of all levels of education.

"My work at Southern Wesleyan ties together a lot of my passions. I want to help people improve their lives through higher education," Shelton said.

In addition to his work at the university, Shelton serves as a trustee for the Pickens County School Board. He has been a trustee for four years, served two years as chairman and is currently vice-chairman.

"I am able to work with students in the elementary level as well as with adults who are interested in improving their education," Shelton said. "Adult students can become better businesspeople or educators. I am completely sold on our programs."

Southern Wesleyan offers a variety of degree programs for working adults at its location in Central, including Bachelor of Science in Business Management, Bachelor of Science in Human Services, Master of Business Administration, Master of Education in Classroom Leadership, Master of Education in Administration and Supervision and Master of Science in Management.

"The Southern Wesleyan University experience is Christian-based. I'm confident that the people who graduate from our programs are taking away from here a high-quality education with a Christian perspective," Shelton said. "We're taking men and women and changing hundreds of lives, one life at a time. That's probably one of the single greatest satisfactions that I get."

Shelton had a number of other careers before beginning his current role as regional director for the adult program at the university's Central location. He earned his bachelor's degree in textile engineering at Clemson University, then worked with several textile manufacturing companies. He also worked as a process engineer in the automotive industry and published a newspaper in his hometown, Dacusville, S.C.

"I spent so many years in manufacturing and engineering. It was lucrative, but it wasn't fulfilling. When I jumped into public service, I was searching for employment in some part of the field of education," he said.

Shelton is grateful to work with a university that has such a strong economic and social impact, he said.

"Southern Wesleyan University impacts this area spiritually, culturally and economically. Part of what we are is a missions program. When we educate students and send them back into the world to educate others, then they, in turn become missionaries," Shelton said.

"There are so many cultural events on our campus. Most are open to the public and, in many cases, they are free. We present wonderful events at our Newton Hobson Chapel and Fine Arts building. So many people come here to enjoy offerings from Southern Wesleyan University to the public. That's part of our mission, too," he said.

Now is a particularly good time for adults to consider earning a college degree, Shelton said.

about education

“Anytime is a good time to attend Southern Wesleyan, but right now in particular, the degree programs we offer make people more marketable,” he said. “If two applicants are competing for a job and one has that degree and the other doesn’t, we’ve given our graduate a leg up.”

In his free time, Shelton enjoys studying history.

“I’m a real history buff. I love history and I love Carolina. I’m a real Carolina boy,” he said.

Shelton and his wife, Ginger, have two children: John, 23, and Caroline, 15. John is enrolled in the adult program at Southern Wesleyan. The family attends Dacusville United Methodist Church.

Shelton is also active in a number of community groups. He founded the Dacusville Business association in 2006, served two years as president and serves as a board member. Shelton served several years as a board member and president for the Dacusville Little League and currently serves on the board for the Pickens County chapter of the American Red Cross.

In addition to the local school board, Shelton is serving on two statewide boards: the Board of Directors for the South Carolina School Boards Association and the board for the South Carolina School Board Insurance Trust Corporation.

“I enjoy serving on community boards. To me, public service is a calling,” Shelton said. “I hope I do a good job and that people trust my judgment.”
